SMØRREBRØD

Our SMØRREBRØD open sandwiches have been a mainstay of the Canny Man's for the last 25 years and all our ingredients are freshly prepared every day. All the sandwiches are cold and are served on soda bread (or rye bread if you prefer) garnished with lettuce, cucumber, tomato, onion and egg. Although we have reduced the number, all your old favourites can still be prepared to order just ask a member of staff.

The Canny Man's pub in Morningside is an Edinburgh institution established in 1871 and passed down through 5 generations of the Kerr family. It is a free house, as free as the wind as Mr Kerr used to say, therefore it has no connection with any brewery and only sells the best of each brewer's produce. The Canny Man's has developed a formidable reputation for its Bloody Mary, even gaining exposure on BBC's Saturday Kitchen show. If there is a better hangover cure we have not found it yet! This small family run bar in Edinburgh has catered to many dignitaries and celebrities over the years. With renowned seafood chef Rick Stein calling the Canny Man's "the best pub in the world!". Sadly, Watson Kerr passed away in September 2011 but his full page obituary in the Scotsman newspaper described him as an "extraordinary Edinburgh publican whose unique approach to hospitality brought his Canny Man's pub legendary status". His obituary hangs in the hallway. Mr Kerr's philosophy is still alive today in the form of his wife and two sons who continue to run the public house in the manner he desired.
